

AMEYA YOKOCHO

AMEYAYOKOCHO (commonly known as AMEYOKO) was the site of the Tokyo black market district during the years of the occupation. It is often referred as the "American Corner" because it is where you can find American goods. This is a very busy marketplace crowded with shoppers and vendors selling a wide variety of items. Most Japanese foods are available here for prices considerably lower than elsewhere. Stores usually open at 1000 and close at 1900. The main street of the AMEYAYOKOCHO district is located along the Yamanote Line tracks, between Ueno and Okachimachi Stations.

The market is conveniently located behind the towering Yodobashii Camera building, which is directly across the street from the Ueno Park main entrance. Take the JR Yamanote line to Ueno Station, and take the exit for Ueno Park. Once you approach the entrance to Ueno Park, you will see across the street the Yodobashii Camera building.
